ACTION ASKED ON JAP PROBLEM

Carson City Paper Would Call Special Session to Deal With Land Ownership

If it is true that a Japanese company has secured 3600 acres of land in Elko county and intends colonizing it with a large number of their countrymen, action should be taken at once by the state authorities to prevent the matter going any further, and if existing laws do not govern the case a special session of the legislature should be called to provide laws that will, states the Carson Appeal.

Nevada should know, from California's experience, that the Japanese are not desirable residents, no matter in what line they engage, and prying by that experience their scheme of colonization should be nipped in the bud.

We want Nevada lands cultivated and made productive but it should not be done by the Asiatics and at the eventual cost of the whites. It were better the land remain idle than be given up to the brown race.
